Re: GCCI Inc. General Contractors

Letter of Recommendation

As a Project Manager in the Engineering and Maintenance Dep't of Treasury Wine Estates Americas we are tasked with managing repair and construction projects at numerous sites here in California. I have had the opportunity to work with many different construction, contracting and service companies over the 30+ years I have been with TWE. We first started working with GCCI Inc. after the 2014 earthquake centered in Napa County damaged several buildings at a few of our winery sites. One in particular that sustained significant damage was an unreinforced masonry building at our Stags' Leap Winery facility in Napa which was built in the late 1800's and has historic significance. That building is integral to the character and visitor experience at the site and a successful outcome was very important to us.

GCCI was the lead contractor in the project to repair quake damage and perform a seismic retrofit to the building. We have a very stringent HSE safety/contractor management program at TWE and GCCI met every safety protocol and condition without question. Their entire management staff and onsite personnel are extremely personable and were always considerate of our concerns for a safe working environment and the wishes of the site. They worked hard to meet shifting daily tasks and work around site constraints. I found their knowledge, professionalism and the easy-going personalities of their staff to be a joy to work. As with many construction projects there were a number of unforeseen issues that resulted in sudden changes to scope and timeline but in the end delivered a product that fully satisfied our wishes and met expectations.

They have subsequently worked on many projects for TWE that include but is not limited to several building and ADA improvements at Sterling Winery, repairs and improvement projects at Beringer Winery and fire damage repairs to Chateau St. Jean Winery. They are able to respond quickly, work hard to meet expectations and over perform with regularity. With that they have become my de-facto choice for construction services when needed and I value the relationship that we have built over the years

I would highly recommend full consideration of GCCI Inc. as a resource for current and future construction needs.

Please feel free to contact me with any questions
